SYNOPSIS: On 13 Apr 11, a contractor from a known US Company attempted to utilize a Federation for Identity and Cross-Credentialing Systems (FIXS) identification (ID) card to gain access to a US military installation located in the San Antonio, TX. The FIXS ID card closely resembles the DOD Common Access Code. Security personnel suspected the FIXS card to be fraudulent and seized it. Further investigation determined the FIXS card is a legitimate form of identification established by a consortium of commercial companies, government contractors and not-for-profit organizations who have established and maintained a worldwide, interoperable identity and cross-credentialing network built on security, privacy, trust, standard operating rules, polices, and technical standards. DOD is a member of FIXS. During 2010 USNORTHCOM published a message identifying the FIXS as being a legitimate form of identification and should not be seized as fraudulent. Further, it was at the discretion of the
